DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to amendment filed 3/17/2006.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

2. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 3/17/06 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

3. Claims 1, 6,7, 10-12, 20, 23 and 25-27 have been amended. Claims 1, 6-12, 20 and 23-27 remain pending in the application.

Response to Arguments

4. See claims analysis below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 3624

Claims 1, 2-12, 20, 23-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 is indefinite because the check presented to the (associated bank) is the same check that is electronically created and therefore contains the (same) first set of information as originally present. Therefore, when a comparison is made between the electronically transferred second set of information (at least the payee and the amount) and the information read from scanning the bar code (the payee and the amount) a match will always occur and the check will always be paid. The present form of claim recitation does not address the object of preventing fraud at least in the current form.

One possible amendment that would address this concern is that the claim should introduce the possibility of fraudulent or unauthorized alteration of at least some of the first set of information.

Claim 1 should also clearly recite that the information is electronically transferred to the associated bank's database in order that the comparison is facilitated without any ambiguity. (If the information is transferred via a fax or telephone call, the comparison cannot be performed unless the information is stored in the bank's database).

All other independent claims should be amended to rectify similar deficiencies.

Claim 10 is indefinite because the "drawer electronically transferring.." and "the drawing entering.." steps recite the limitations "for later comparison .." only as intended use. Nothing is achieved in terms of preventing fraud.

Further deficiency of the claim is evident from the fact that the attaching a machine-readable code to the negotiable instrument does not server any purpose as recited. The process of the "drawer electronically transferring the second set of information.." and the "drawing entering the second set of information" are performed independent of the attaching the bar code step.

It is recommended that claim 12 be written in an independent form to correct this defect.

Allowable subject matter

6. Claims 1, 2-12, 20, 23-27 are deemed allowable over prior art of record subject to resolution of the deficiencies identified under 35 USC 112 (second) as above.

Art Unit: 3624
